Hoc signo Fortuna.

BALTIMORE—MONDAY, JULY 14, 1828.

Correction of an Error. An important typographical error escaped notice in our last Register. In the first paragraph, line 21st, the word Ten, ought to have been Four. It would then read, "all tickets ending either with 7, 0, 2, or 4, are those entitled to the Four dollar prizes," &c.

The error, being so evident, no doubt will have been noticed and corrected accordingly, by those who may have read the paragraph, yet it is proper that we should notice it in this way.

Drawing on the 20th of August.

As mentioned in our last, and in order to allow distant adventurers time to forward their orders for Tickets or Shares in the MARYLAND STATE LOTTERY, No. 4, for 1828, the drawing is fixed for Wednesday, the 20th of NEXT MONTH, (August). We have thus endeavoured to accommodate our friends at a distance, in allowing them an opportunity of investing in this Scheme, which is arranged on the ODD AND EVEN SYSTEM, so universally preferred, in consequence of the trifling risk to adventurers, there being by this mode a certainty of obtaining at least One Prize, by the purchase of two Tickets or two Shares, and in proportion for any greater number. EVERY PRIZE IN THE LOTTERY IS PAYABLE IN CASH, and which, as usual at COHEN'S OFFICE, can be had the moment they are drawn.

*Whole Tickets, $4 | Quarters, . . . $1
Halves, . . . 2 | Eighths, . . . 50 cts.*

** ORDERS from any part of the United States, either by mail (post paid) or private conveyance, enclosing the Cash or Prize Tickets will meet the same prompt and punctual attention as if on personal application.

J. I. COHEN, JR. & BROTHERS,—Baltimore.

COHEN'S "Gazette & Register," which will be printed immediately after the drawing, will contain the Official List of the Prizes and Blanks; and will be forwarded to adventurers who may desire it.

Notice to Distant Adventurers.

Strangers and others are respectfully reminded, in order to prevent mistakes, that COHEN'S OFFICE in the City of Baltimore is at

No. 114, Market-street, and in calling, sending, or directing letters, they ought to be particular. We make this special notice in consequence of there being an Office in Baltimore of a name, in appearance on paper, somewhat similar—so much so that many mistakes have been made.

Celebration of the 4th July.

This auspicious day was celebrated in Baltimore with unusual splendor, in consequence, not only as the Anniversary of AMERICAN INDEPENDENCE, but as the day of commencing the great work of the RAIL-ROAD from the City of Baltimore to the Ohio River. Our limits, of course, will not permit even a summary of description. The most splendid and imposing part of the celebration was a grand Procession of the various trades and professors engaged in their different occupations:

"The several tradesmen plied their work: the farmers mowed and sowed and reaped: the dairymen milked and churned: the plough and the harrow mimicked their usual toil: the tailors sewed; the blacksmith's anvil rung merrily: the coopers clattered away: the weaver's shuttle flew unremittingly: the turners, tinners, braziers, brass-founders, in fine, all the trades exercised their respective labours on moving stages, beautifully decorated for the occasion. The ship Union rolled along with its merry crew, and its attendant guard of sailors looked up to it as the brightest ornament of the procession."

The ceremony of laying the first stone of the Rail-Road was extremely interesting, it being performed by CHARLES CARROLL of CARROLLTON, the only surviving signer of the declaration of Independence, now in the 92d year of his age.

Thousands of persons, and they not beyond middle age, says the American, who thus beheld an array of between five and six thousand artisans exercising their respective trades within the limits of the city; who witnessed this display amidst a concourse of more than fifty, perhaps seventy thousand persons; and saw long lines of streets extending on every side; could remember a period little more than thirty years distant, when the "Town of Baltimore," and its environs offered a very different spectacle.

Such as it now is, we think we have some reason to be proud of it, as an example of what may be done by the enterprise of individuals, animated by an active and intelligent spirit. The undertaking just commenced, is of a magnitude and cost that, as the phrase runs, are worthy of emperors. To speak in a language more appropriate and more just, they are worthy of the illumination, practical sense, and irresistible enterprise, of free states. That they should be fearlessly encountered by a single city, of so small a comparative size, unassisted, in the first instance, from any other quarter, is, as far as we know, unparalleled, and deserves success, if it does not command it. But it will command it; and we take our leave of this subject so naturally interesting to us, by wishing, with all our heart, an indefatigable prosecution, and a triumphant completion, to the Baltimore and Ohio Rail road.

We have placed in our first page, the principal details of the recent celebration at Baltimore.—They will afford pleasure to most of our readers. The strong excitement of a large and respectable community, produced by patriotic feelings and generous hopes, forms a grateful subject of attention for every liberal observer. We sincerely wish that the most sanguine expectations of the Baltimoreans may be realized. What they have undertaken is represented, after due investigation by men of science and experience, as practicable; it must prove, if accomplished, a source of abundant prosperity to Baltimore, and a great national blessing. The magnitude of the ends is proportioned to the difficulty of the enterprise. It is, therefore, a suitable object of enthusiasm:—its commencement was a just occasion for elaborate ceremonial; its association with the anniversary of American Independence enhanced the dignity and interest of each.

Gentlemen who were present at the Baltimore festival say that the thrice venerable man, whom Providence has made the residuary legatee of the honors of the Congress of 1776, executed the part which was assigned to him with a firm hand, an agile step, and a countenance of the brightest vivacity and pleasure. He stated to the bystanders his recollection of their now populous and beautiful city when it was scarcely farther advanced than the work of which he was laying the first stone, and when an anticipation of its extent and character at this period would have been deemed not less romantic than many persons supposed their hopes of the rail-road to be. His memory touched nearly the two extremities of its condition.

We re-publish to-day on the 4th page, the Official List of the Drawing of the 3d Maryland State Lottery, which took place on 25th last month.—Adventurers holding Prizes are requested to hand or send them in for payment, as early as may suit their convenience.

The PRUTH, so often mentioned of late, is a river of Moldavia running for the first half of its course, in a south easterly direction, and for the other half, in a southerly, till it falls into the Danube from 80 to 90 miles above the mouth. While the Pruth continues its south easterly course, it divides ancient Moldavia nearly in half; after taking its southern direction, it is the boundary between that principality and the Russian provinces of Bessarabia. As the Russian frontier now extends to the Pruth, the principality of Moldavia is no longer by the Dnister, as it appears in most maps, but has the Pruth for its north eastern boundary, not its north western as stated in the New York Journal; and the Russian armies lie, we presume, not in Poland, but in that part of Moldavia on the left bank of the Pruth, acquired by Russia. The distance to Constantinople from the confluence of the Pruth and Danube (to which point the Russian frontier extends) is about 250 miles by water and 300 by land, in a direct line.

Solar Microscope—This wonderful production of Art is now found as far South as Philadelphia—therefore, the curious of Baltimore may prepare for its presence. The Editor of the U. S. Gazette says he visited it on Friday, and found it honored with a large company of young ladies, to whom it was unfolding the wonders of nature to their great admiration—especially when they saw a piece of very fine lace, assume the appearance of gratings, with bars four or five inches in diameter.

A very fine cambric needle, appeared something like an awning past; and the dust from a fig, assumed life and animation, that were truly astonishing. The forms that this dust took were very like the five banded armadillo of South America, from 10 to 15 inches in length; and they showed their strength and agility in a sharp contest for the chief seat on the point of the cambric needle; for which they contended with a most edifying earnestness.

A few drops of vinegar contained an eel of a most magnificent size—enough to serve a moderate eater through lent.

The crystallization of salts, was the most beautiful part of the exhibition—and of these, the Sal Amoniac and the Muriate of Barytes, were most attractive. This part of the exhibition is particularly worthy the attention of the citizens, and cannot fail of being both instructive and amusing.

Tread Mill—The tread-mill produced a very good effect when it was first introduced into the Philadelphia Alms House. Some one or two hundred sturdy paupers turned their backs on the institution in disgust; and the managers were congratulating one another on having at length discovered a means of forcing the able bodied pensioners to resort to honest labor. A few months afterwards, however, a gentleman had occasion to visit the Arch-street prison, and there he found the very persons who used to be inmates of the Alms house. They seemed determined to derive their support from the public in some form or other, and preferred the House of Confinement with its lax discipline, to the Alms house with its tread-mill.

FOURTH CLASS

State Lottery

OF MARYLAND,
To be drawn in the City of Baltimore on Wednesday, 20th of August.

Odd and Even System.

HIGHEST PRIZE,

$10,000

SCHEME:

1	Prize of $10,000 is $10,000
1	2,000 ..... 2,000
1	1,000 ..... 1,000
2	500 ..... 1,000
10	100 ..... 1,000
10	50 ..... 500
30	20 ..... 600
100	10 ..... 1,000
100	5 ..... 500
100	4 ..... 400
6000	3 ..... 18,000
6355	Prizes, amounting to $36,000
5645	— Not One Blank to a Prize!
12000	Tickets ..... $36,000

MODE OF DRAWING.—The numbers will be put into one wheel as usual—and into other wheel will be put the prizes above the denomination of Three Dollars, and the drawing to progress in the usual manner. The 6,000 prizes of $3 will be awarded to the odd or even numbers of the Lottery, (as the case may be) dependent on the drawing of the Capital Prize of Ten Thousand Dollars—that is to say, if the 10,000 dollar prize should come out to an Odd Number, then every Odd Number in the Scheme will be entitled to a Three Dollar Prize; if the 10,000 dollar prize should come out to an Even Number, then all the Even Numbers in the Scheme will be each entitled to a prize of 3 dollars.

Odd Numbers end with 1, 3, 5, 7, or 9.

Even Numbers end with 2, 4, 6, 8, or 0.

This mode of drawing not only enables the Commissioners to complete the whole Lottery in ONE DRAWING, but has the great advantage of distributing the small prizes regularly to every alternate number in the Scheme, so that the holder of two Tickets, or two Shares of Tickets, (one Odd and one Even Number,) will be certain of obtaining at least one prize, and in the same ratio for any greater quantity. A Ticket drawing a superior prize in this Scheme is not restricted from drawing an inferior one also.
